BILL SPENCER, Member

Once again, may I offer sincere congratulations to each member of the 1971 class upon your graduation from Diamond High School. Our teachers, I feel, have tried to teach the subjects in the curriculum well, and have always had in mind the great responsibility which rests upon this new generation. Teachers and school officials have a keen awareness of the broadening responsibility placed upon them by this rapidly changing world.

We hope that in our homes, churches, and schools you, as graduates, have learned the things that are most important. We hope you understand now, or will soon come to understand, that keeping truth alive on earth is one of the greatest problems before modern civilization.

This task starts in our schools, because here we lay the foundation for the ideals and principals of our way of life. As we build this foundation, we must never take for granted the great qualities of our country. In our political system the individual and his personal rights are of first importance. Here each person must live his life in such a way that he can find happiness without hurting the rights of any other individual.

If you are going to be a happy American, you must base your life on personal achievement and recognition of individual rights. You must follow rules of conduct which provide that those around you can have their just rights as well as you can have yours.

Search for the truth and keep it alive. Our republic was established to assure you the dignity and rights of the individual, the most noble aim of man. If your daily life uses these rights to their fullest, "you will be a good American."

Sincerely,

Marlin Pinnell
